“La vie au ranch”

Monday, Nov. 14, 2011 | 1:00 - 3:00 p.m.

Graham Center — GC 140

La vie au Ranch is unmistakably contrary and different. The attraction of the film can be found in its familiar sketch of modern student life in France and, more universally, the director, Sophie Letourneur, manages to make something clear about a very specific age without saying it. While she is rarely if ever on-screen alone, the playful, apparently improvised camera focuses on 20-year-old Pam, who with Manon shares an apartment known as the 'Ranch'.
