As MPs vote on Brexit today, we say to them: You have a choice...

GREAT BRITAIN OR GREAT BETRAYAL

THE Sun SAYS

REBEL Tory MPs could today destroy their Prime Minister, their Government and the Brexit the 17.4million majority voted for.

A "yes-or-no" deal struck last night for 15 knife-edge Commons votes is still a huge risk, and only postpones an inevitable showdown.

In the end Remainer MPs have a simple choice: trust the people of Great Britain... or trigger a shameful betrayal.

Ooh, you are lawful...but we don't like you!

Decision... Lady Hale reads out court's ruling. Below, the PM yesterday

By TOM WELLS, Chief Reporter

SUN readers reacted with fury yesterday after the Supreme Court ruled Boris Johnson's Parliament shutdown was unlawful. They bombarded us with messages of support for the PM after court president Lady Hale revealed the historic judgment. Many blasted the "unintended" judges and hailed Boris's battle to deliver Brexit. Dave Martin, of Sheffield, writes: "The elite have shafted us again. It seems OK."

WHEN WILL THIS ALL JUST END?

“The relationship between Britain and Europe was never an easy relationship. It was never a love affair and certainly not a question of wild passion. It was a little bit more a marriage of convenience.

Perhaps it was always impossible to unite Great Britain. Perhaps it was never meant to be.

But our predecessors should never be blamed for having tried to. It is important in life as it is in politics to try new partnerships, new horizons, to reach out to each other.

I am also sure that one day there will be a young man or woman who will try again, who will lead Britain into the European family once again.

And a young generation will see Brexit for what it really is; a catfight in the Conservative Party that got out of hand, a loss of time, a waste of energy, a stupidity.”
