

Transformation of Foreign Policy Priorities in the Eastern Partnership region (EaP Countries): Revolutions, Democratization, and the “trap” of neorealism

Lecture by Ruben Elamiryan
Visiting Fulbright Scholar, Princeton University

Thursday, March 21, 2019 | 12:30 p.m.—1:30 p.m. | FIU— MMC

11200 SW 8th Street—Miami, FL 33199—Management Advanced Research Center (MARC Building) - ZEB 110

Dr. Ruben Elamiryan, Visiting Fulbright Scholar, Princeton University will make a presentation on "Transformation of Foreign Policy Priorities in the Eastern Partnership region: Revolutions, Democratization, and the "trap" of neorealism"

Ruben Elamiryan is a Visiting Fulbright Scholar at Princeton University. The topic of the 11-month research is “Eastern Partnership Countries (EaP countries) on the Cross-Roads of the Eurasian Geopolitics (USA, EU, Russia, China)”. He is an assistant professor attached to the Chair of Political Governance and Public Policy at Public Administration Academy of the Republic of Armenia and lecturer at Russian-Armenian (Slavonic) university. He holds a PhD in Political Science.

RSVP by March 18 to Christine I. Caly-Sanchez at calyc@fiu.edu

This event is free and open to all FIU students

Co-Sponsored by: The European & Eurasian Studies Program • The Miami-Florida Jean Monnet Center of Excellence • The Department of Politics & International Relations • The Faculty & Global Affairs, Office of the Provost • The European Student Association • CSO