“The Climate Change and Migration—What Can the U.S. Learn from Europe?”

March 21, 2023

MODERATOR:

Mary Rauktis, University of Pittsburgh

PANELISTS:

Carla Malafaia, University of Porto

Cosmin Nada, University of Porto

Sheila Vélez Martínez, University of Pittsburgh

Tuesdays | 12 -1:30 p.m. EDT | All events will be virtual

As North and Central America increasingly experience climate change and disasters (fires, hurricanes, drought, rising waters from the Great Lakes and Atlantic Ocean), the US has come to realize what our European colleagues have been experiencing as they have been at the forefront of the accelerating trend of global displacement related to climate change. The panel will be an informal discussion of how Europe's experience with climate change and migrants can inform the United States.
